

The deceptively named Humane Society of the United States poses as a nonpartisan animal welfare group. Animal lovers should know these facts:

- HSUS is not affiliated with local humane societies and spends more than 50% of their budget raising more money;
- HSUS has stashed away more than $50 million dollars in offshore Caribbean accounts;
- Two top HSUS execs resigned this year following sexual harassment allegations;
- Only 1% of the money raised by HSUS goes to local pet shelters.

If you want to help animals, support your local shelter—not groups that take advantage of pets (and people) for fundraising and political purposes.
