NOT YOUR LOCAL HUMANE SOCIETY

A 50-State Report on the Humane Society of the United States and its Lack of Support for America's Dog and Cat Shelters

HUMANEWATCH.ORG

Keeping a watchful eye on the Humane Society of the United States

A PROJECT OF THE NONPROFIT CENTER FOR CONSUMER FREEDOM

INTRODUCTION

In a recent national poll conducted by Opinion Research Corporation, 71 percent of Americans indicated that they thought that the Humane Society of the United States (HSUS) “is an umbrella group that represents thousands of local humane societies all across America.” And 59 percent believed that HSUS “contributes most of its money to local organizations that care for dogs and cats.”

Both of these statements are false.

Despite producing a steady stream of television commercials and other fundraising materials that imply otherwise, in 2010, the most recent tax year for which nonprofit IRS filings are available, HSUS gave less than one-half of one percent (0.42%, to be exact) of its total budget as grants to local humane societies or animal shelters.

This report documents the Humane Society of the United States’ grants to pet shelters in the United States from 2008-2010. The data is drawn from HSUS’s 2008 through 2010 tax returns filed with the IRS.

During that three-year period, HSUS’s complete giving to pet shelters totaled less than $50,000 in 40 states even though they generated more than $300 million in revenue. Even taking all 50 states into account, HSUS still put four times more money into its executive pension plan than it put into these shelter grants.

All told, HSUS’s total spending in these 40 states made up just one-sixth of one percent (0.16%) of HSUS’s total budget during this time. In those three tax years, HSUS spent nearly $347 million on salaries, lobbying, pension plans, advertising, fundraising, and other programs.

In 2010 HSUS spent nearly 90 times more on fundraising than it did on grants to support sheltering. HSUS also received a “D” grade from the charity watchdog American Institute of Philanthropy.

HSUS acknowledges that between 3 and 4 million dogs and cats are euthanized in American shelters every year—about half of all pets that enter shelters’ doors. While HSUS can clearly afford to tackle the problem head-on, it appears to have other priorities.

At the end of 2010, HSUS reported having more than $215 million in assets. This raises the question: Can’t the Humane Society of the United States spare more to support pet shelters?

HSUS SHELTER INSIGHTS

The Humane Society of the United States didn't make any donations to Missouri pet shelters in 2008, and gave just $84,889 to the state's shelters over the three-year period. At the same time, this year HSUS has poured more than $185,000 into a 2012 ballot campaign in Missouri. That's on top of the more than $2 million HSUS pumped into the 2010 "Proposition B" campaign. In three years, HSUS spent 43 times more lobbying than it did on grants protecting animals.

From 2008 to 2010, HSUS made zero payments to pet shelters in Rhode Island and Wyoming. And in 2010, HSUS didn't make grants to aid shelters in six other states: North Dakota, Vermont, Maine, Delaware, Arkansas, and Alaska.

HSUS routinely spends far more on state-level political fights than on pet shelters in those same states.

- HSUS spent 86 times more on its Ohio political front group attacking farming in 2009 than it did on Ohio pet shelters.
- HSUS spent 32 times more on a political front group in Missouri in 2010 than it did on shelter-support grants in the Show Me State that year.
- A similar situation existed in Arizona in 2010, in which HSUS's political front received 21 times more grant money than groups did for sheltering.
- HSUS spent 10 times more passing "Proposition 2"—a ballot initiative to create new farming regulations on egg production—in California than on pet shelters there.
- In Massachusetts, the ratio was six-to-one (HSUS spent heavily on a ballot initiative to ban greyhound racing).

HSUS SHELTER GIVING, STATE BY STATE

To compile this list, we examined the schedules of outgoing grants provided by the Humane Society of the United States as part of its "Form 990" federal tax returns.

Each grantee was examined to determine whether it met the basic qualifications of:

- being a hands-on animal care center;
- being concerned with the daily care, adoption, and/or rehabilitation of dogs, cats, and other pets; and
- being located in the United States of America.

HSUS grantees meeting these qualifications were deemed to be "hands-on pet shelters" for the purpose of this report, and are listed below. In every case where we could not make a clear determination, we gave HSUS the benefit of the doubt and counted the grantee as a pet shelter. For 2010, HSUS's tax return was explicit about the purpose of the grant, so groups receiving spay/neuter-only grants were not included.
