

CHARITY ALERT!

If you or someone you know has donated to the Humane Society of the United States (HSUS), be aware that this group is NOT affiliated with local pet shelters. Despite raising more than $131 million last year with emotional appeals picturing dogs and cats, this group gave only 1 percent of its budget to local pet shelters. Meanwhile, HSUS's President partnered with convicted dogfighting kingpin Michael Vick, and even said, "he would do a good job as a pet owner."

Have you seen these ads?

You may have been misled into thinking your donation would go to local pet shelters. Only 1 percent made it to hands-on pet shelters.

The American Institute of Philanthropy recently gave the Humane Society of the United States an "unsatisfactory" grade of "D."

If you would like to help local pet shelters please donate directly to your local facility.
